

You have the right to receive a “Good Faith Estimate” explaining how much your medical/surgical care will cost.

Under the law, healthcare providers need to give patients who don’t have commercial insurance or who are choosing not to use their insurance an estimate of the cost of the medical/surgical care they are seeking. You have the right to:

- Receive a Good Faith Estimate for the total expected cost of any non-emergency items or services. This includes related costs like medical tests, prescription drugs, equipment, and any other fees.
- Request your healthcare provider gives you a Good Faith Estimate in writing at least one (1) business day before your medical services or items. You can also ask your healthcare provider, and any other provider you choose, for a Good Faith Estimate before your schedule an item or service.
- If you receive a bill that is at least $400 more than your Good Faith Estimate, you can dispute the bill.
- Make sure you save a copy or a picture of your Good Faith Estimate.
